ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Particular thanks are due to Karen Ackermann at Heritage Books for her very helpful advice on putting together this and previous works and to Donald Odell Virdin for his always helpful suggestions and encouragement.

INTRODUCTION

The works in this bibliography, covering over 1800 family names, deal with families who have some connection to Ohio. A separate section lists family histories and genealogies on microfilm at the Library of Congress as of mid-1992. A brief introduction to that section of this book may be found on page 333.

By far the largest portion of the works covered in this book can be found at the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., the National Genealogical Society (NGS) Library Arlington, Virginia, or in the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) Library in Washington, D.C.

Also included are a significant number of books from more than 15 historical association and public libraries from Massachusetts to California, including the New York Public Library, the Allen County Public Library (Fort Wayne, Indiana), and the San Francisco Public Library.

The reader should remember that no work of this kind can ever be complete. Many family histories are privately printed and never make their way into large collections. Similarly, many newer works will not have been published, or cataloged, in time for inclusion in this book. It is neither possible, nor practicable, to review individual bibliographies and family histories. For this reason, family names included here may, or may not, be primarily or exclusively associated with Ohio and some works, published in Ohio and included here, may occasionally refer to non-Ohio families, with the only reference to the State being the fact that the bibliography or history was published there. They have been included in order to cast as wide a net as practicable to include all possible references to families with some association with Ohio. By the same token, there may be other published material on Ohio families in works relating to other areas of the country, but they are not included here, because there was no way to identify a relationship to Ohio. Many of the books cited here include references to other states and countries.

This work follows primarily the Library of Congress system for cataloging names, so, for example, a work on "Cline" might be shown under the Library of Congress Family Name Index of "Kline" even when "Kline" is not mentioned in the title or the description of the book.

Similarly, since different libraries catalog publications with slightly differing classification systems, family names may have different spellings, depending on the system being used. As a result, there are listings in this book, which may in some cases be duplicative of other listings, since it was not always possible to determine if references were to the same book, to different editions, or to different books.

In compiling the bibliographies and family histories listed, I have attempted to err on the side of including, rather than excluding, works with similar titles and publication dates where the possibility exists that the books are, at least, different editions of the same work. The Cross-Reference Index will show the page location in this book of all families mentioned in the descriptions in the original source documents.

Among the various sources , the use of the terms "pages" and "leaves" is not always consistent from library to library, so that the same book in different libraries may be shown as having "n" leaves, or "n" pages. Similarly, different catalogers may use different styles to indicate pagination, e. g. 47 pages in one source may appear as 2, 1, 44 pages in a different source, yet both are indicating a total of 47 pages. This adds to the problem of determining whether different catalogers were reporting on the same, or different, editions, of the same book. In the interests of simplicity, I have shortened some lengthy pagination descriptions so that, for example, a pagination description of 5p., 1., 145, (1)p,, 1 1., is generally rendered here as 5, 145, 1p.

Another area, which may present difficulty to the reader, occurs when catalogers indicate the pagination as, for example, 160 [i.e.326]p. Usually this means that there are 160 numbered pages with data on one side only, with the added possibility of additional blank pages and some sheets numbered on both sides. In such cases, the bracketed figure generally indicates the total number of pages in the volume. This, fortunately, does not often occur.

Where different library catalogers have used different descriptions for the same work, the more detailed description has generally been followed, and in some cases, differing descriptions have been combined to provide the user with as much information possible about the content of an individual work.

FORMAT: The description of bibliographies and family histories contained in this volume generally follows the format indicated below:

FAMILY NAME -- Author (Compiler or Editor). Title. Subtitle. Place of Publication, Date of Publication. Number of pages or leaves. Additional Descriptive Material, if any. [Source abbreviation. Library catalog or page number in that source for the referenced work may also be given, e. g. L600 shows that the genealogy is listed as item 600 in Genealogies in the Library of Congress].

Note that in the Section dealing with Histories and Genealogies on Microfilm at the Library of Congress, the last item will be the catalog number for the Microfilm which contains the book, chart, or other document cited.

In the above sources the numbers following the entry in the text refer to the number assigned to the entry in the source publication and not to a page number:

A - C - G - S - D - DC - DS - L

In other sources, the number refers to the page number where the genealogy or family history is located in that source, e. g. NG123 shows that the genealogy is located on page 123 of the National Genealogical Society Library Book List.

NG - NGS - VP - VV - X - XA

While most citations are to specific library collections, the Virdin Virginia (VV) and Pennsylvania (VP) genealogies are not contained in any specific library. Library collections for entries followed solely by [VV] or [VP] may be in some of the other library collections cited, but the user is advised to consult other libraries and historical and genealogical societies in the states concerned. All other source references are to libraries and genealogical societies located in the Metropolitan Washington, DC area, except those marked "X-____ or XA-____".

Note that the entries for the Complement to the Genealogies in the Library of Congress, "X" and "XA", are for genealogies and family histories not in the Library of Congress at the time "A Complement... " was written and many are not in the Library of Congress collection to this date. The coding, at the end of each entry, will indicate if any particular "X" or "XA" entry is also shown as being in the Library of Congress collection. The X is followed, by the initials of the Library, or Libraries, where the genealogy or family history is located, e.g.

[X-FW] Allen County Public Library, Fort Wayne, Indiana

[X-NY/SL] New York Public Library and St. Louis Public Library.

Library Designators used with the "X" (and "XA") entries are:

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS GENEALOGIES CONVERTED TO MICROFORM

A list of older genealogies in the United States Library of Congress, which have been converted to microfilm follows this brief introduction on availability of microfilms and other materials from the Library of Congress.

Where conversion to microfilm has taken place, there is usually no original volume in the Library's collection. Microfilm reels in the Library are 35mm. All listings are on 1 reel unless otherwise indicated.

The list of microfilmed genealogies in this volume can be used as a borrowing tool for librarians and those doing research on a particular family name can purchase the microfilm reels directly or paper copies made from them.

Library policy does not allow circulation of genealogy on interlibrary loan, but microfilm copies may be circulated. The Library may be able to assist in purchasing photocopies of out-of-print items. The interested researcher may obtain free upon request a circular entitled Out-of-Print Materials and Reprinted Publications. Requests should be addressed to: Library of Congress, Humanities and Social Science Division, Washington, DC 20540.

Copies of microfilm listed below may be ordered from the Photoduplicating Service at the address given above at a cost of $30.00 per reel, which includes postage and handling. Requets for "Copyflow" prints on paper may also be ordered. The researcher needs to inquire regarding specific prices.

Provided there are no copyright restrictions, photcopies of any item in the Library's genealogical collections may be obtained under the conditions specified in the order form, which may be obtained from the Library of Congress Photoduplication Service, Washington, DC 20540. As an example of the cost involved The Library indicates that the charge for prparing an unbound photocopy of a 200-page book (page sixe 9" x 6") would be about $50. Note that in requesting photocopy services, the specific pages and material to be copied must be cited in the request.

The following short bibliographies on genealogical subjects are available without charge from the Library of Congress, Humanities and Social Science Services Division:

Guide to Genealogical Research, a Selected List of Publications, which tells how to trace an ancestor.

Surnames, a Selected List of References to books on family names and national origins.

Immigrant Arrivals, A Short Guide to Published Sources, of possible help in identifying ships and passenger lists.

Heraldry, a Selected List of References to books on the origins, use, design, and identification of coats of arms.

Note that there is some duplication between the works shown as being in the Library collection as those listed below as being on Microfilm. It is probable, that were duplication exists, the original work is no longer available other than in Microfilm.

The cross-index at the end of this volume includes both microfilm and paper holdings listed in the Libraries collections.

Ohio Families: A Bibliography of Books About Ohio Families

Donald M. Hehir

With over 1800 Ohioan surnames referenced in this major new work, Mr. Hehir provides, in one source, a comprehensive listing of all printed Ohioan genealogies and family histories that have made their way into major library collections across the U.S.

The author researched library listings and catalogs covering many genealogical libraries, including the Library of Congress, the National Genealogical Society Library, and the Library of the Daughters of the American Revolution along with historical association libraries from Massachusetts to California. Many of the books deal with multiple familes, some with non-Ohio roots.

Arranged for ease of use, the entries are presented alphabetically according to surname, with a cros family and secondary names to help researche names that would otherwise remain buried wit
Also included is a separate bibliography of titles at the Library of Congress. No genealogist w Ohioan families should be without this time-savin his or her shelf.
